Victorian Style in High Places

Robert O'Brien, AIA, of Hampstead, MD, seeks low-maintenance materials for his architectural designs, in addition to products that promote safety. For this picturesque Victorian style home in Carroll County, MD, he specified AZEK for all of the frieze boards. "I am delighted with AZEK for a variety of reasons," he said. O'Brien wanted the trim areas to be durable and stand up to the elements and insects while addressing his safety concerns. For the high places on the Victorian, O'Brien stated "I wanted a product that would require minimal upkeep and fewer trips up and down a ladder." Using AZEK makes his projects look great and helps keep his clients safe.
